Throughout this module, students are working independently to choose and learn about a social justice issue that intersects with criminal justice. There are several issues criminal justice officials must react to during various decision-making points in the criminal justice system. Criminal justice officials must frequently respond to broader social problems in an ethical manner.

Criminal justice is related to several social justice problems and issues. These may include behavioral health, environmental justice, and housing/homelessness, as well as issues such as gender and racial justice.

In this learning module we're doing something new by letting students explore a social justice topic of their choosing! Yay! Accordingly, each student will join a "Social Justice" Group. The social justice topic groups consist of the following:

- Behavioral health (e.g., drug use, mental health)
- Environmental justice
- Gender justice
- Hunger & Homelessness (poverty)

After joining a group, you will participate in discussions with others in your group to exchange ideas and information about the social justice topic.

- In the first discussion, everyone will share ideas of how your group's social justice field/issue intersects with criminal justice.
- In the second discussion, each student will select one ethical theory that applies to the chosen social justice field/issue and criminal justice.

CHOOSE YOUR SOCIAL JUSTICE GROUP CAREFULLY!!

Every activity and assignment in this third module is based on the social justice field/issue you select. You have activities and assignments that build on and support each other on the same social justice topic of your choosing. (See the Syllabus for more information on the assignments and points.)

Once the due date for joining a "Social Justice Group" has passed, you will be "locked" into participating in the activities and assignments on that single topic for the entirety of this project.

Join a Social Justice Group here! (See <https://community.canvaslms.com/docs/DOC-10698-4212225748> (<https://community.canvaslms.com/docs/DOC-10698-4212225748>) for directions.)

After everyone in the class has joined a Social Justice group, the graded Discussions can be made available to you. By joining a group, everyone will be discussing the same topic. So, those in a group, such as "Behavioral health", can focus on how behavioral health is related to criminal justice without wading through topics on environmental justice, homelessness, etc.

Be sure to read through all the pages under Module 3 in this Webcourse.

NOTE - Those students who fail to sign up for a social justice group will be assigned to a "miscellaneous" group.

There are no points associated with this Assignment. This Assignment serves as a reminder to meet the deadline.
